Foreword

---

When a great philosopher, poet, or scientist makes a discovery that he wishes all mankind to know and remember, by word of mouth he can carry his message to a mere few. Through books he can relay his message to millions. Therefore, we wish to dedicate the theme of the "INNITOU" to Books so that we also may preserve our school day memories and in future years look back upon our many inspiring deeds.

J. FRANK HASSETT

To the Members of the Class of 1951:

Congratulations to each of you as you approach graduation. I am very pleased to be afforded this opportunity to insert this brief message in your graduation yearbook.

Although the world as a whole appears to be in a turmoil and our own government is operating under a national emergency, we know for certain that we who advocate democracy and freedom will ultimately be victorious. In the meantime we must support our country during this present struggle and at the same time never lose sight of our own individual ambitions and goal in life.

The record of the first half of the twentieth century is one of amazing achievement. The record of the next fifty years can be even more amazing. Whether for good or evil remains to be seen. We do know that there is more than enough of everything for everyone. The material needs and wants of all people can be adequately satisfied. Peace of mind, security, physical well-being, happiness, opportunity etc. are possible for all citizens of the world. Perhaps the year two thousand will record that great progress had been made in the previous fifty years towards attaining these goals of human happiness.

Those of you who find it possible to continue your education in a day college should do so, and those who find it necessary to seek immediate employment should continue to improve their mind by taking various vocational courses offered evenings and by reading a great deal. Our public library contains much valuable and interesting reading material.

May I at this time also congratulate your proud parents. I know how happy and pleased they are on this special occasion.

In conclusion I wish each of you success and happiness in any new undertaking which you decide to pursue in September.

J. Frank Hassett
Superintendent of Schools

Dedication

To Miss M. Maude Morton, our Art Supervisor:

It is with deep admiration and gratitude that the Class of Nineteen Hundred Fifty-One dedicates its book, "The Innitou," to a teacher who has helped us in innumerable ways to achieve our scholastic goals and to assist and guide us in our endeavors and undertakings.

Farewell

OREL M. BEAN

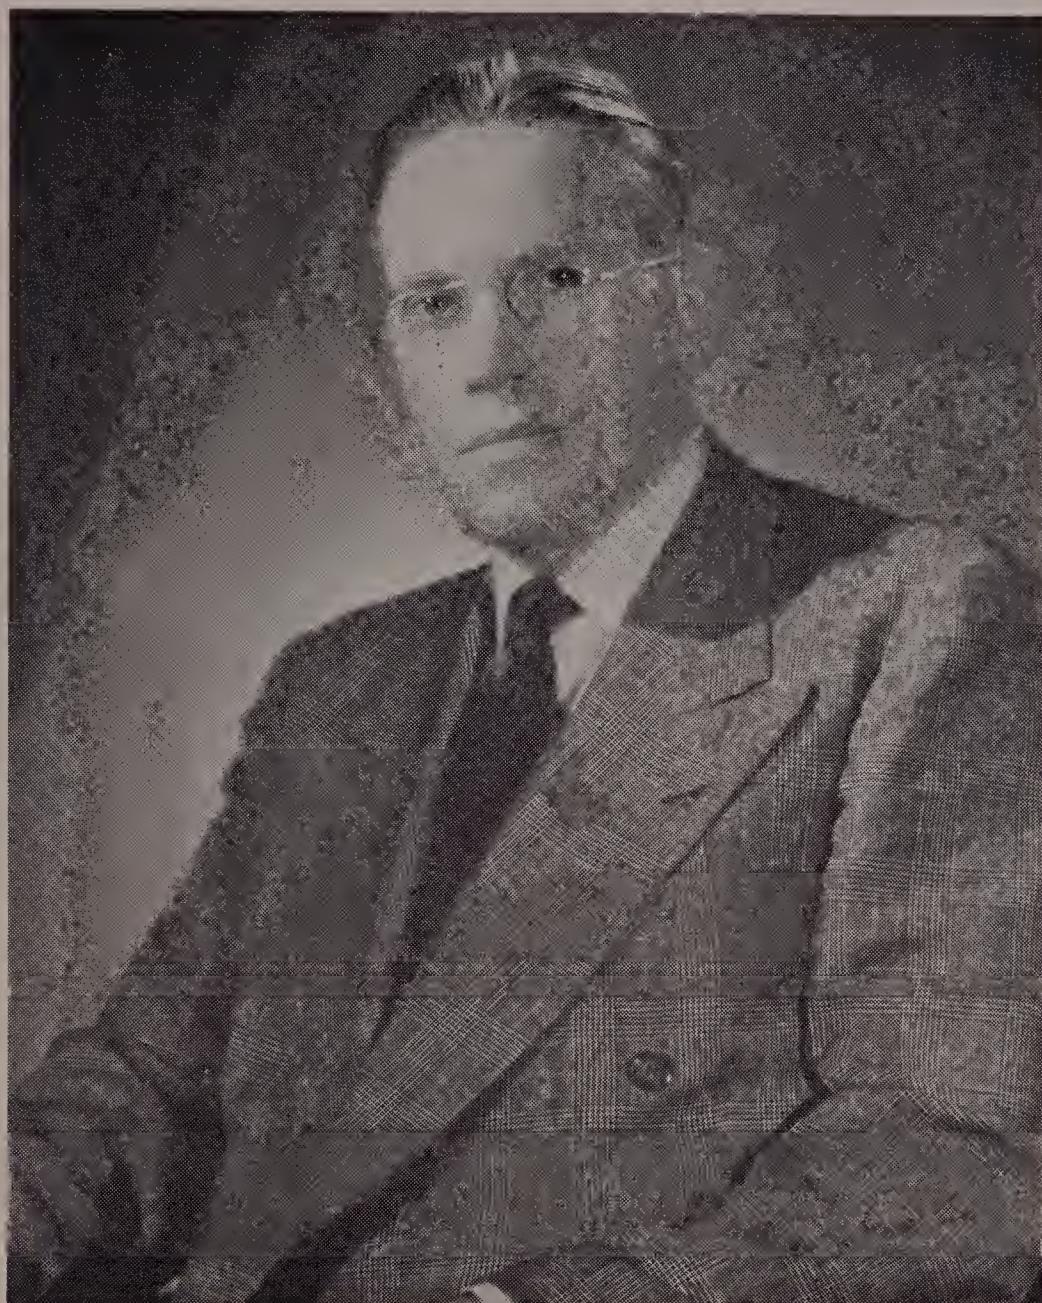

Remembrance is the sweetest flower
Of all this world's perfuming,
Memory guards it sun or shower
Friendship keeps it blooming.

The greatest inspiration to future achievement is to look with satisfaction on a job well done. As we review the years which Mr. Bean has spent as principal of Woburn High School, we are impressed with the meaning of these words: Friendship without familiarity, justice without favoritism, and education without indoctrination. On these premises he carried out his administration for thirty-three years.

Although he is no longer head of the school, his influence will still be felt in the pattern which he has established for his successors to follow.

May he enjoy his retirement and may the friendship which he has cultivated ever remain with him.

Welcome

HENRY D. BLAKE, PRINCIPAL

Success! What constitutes this medium? All philosophers have their theories concerning this "open sesame" to happiness and many expound them at great lengths in newspapers and books of today. Everyone will agree that the success of a high school student depends in a large measure, upon the leadership which he receives from the time he enters that school until he is graduated from it. The principal of the school is called upon to furnish the inspiration for this leadership among both students and teachers.

We, as students of the Woburn High School, have been very fortunate in having had Mr. Blake as one of our teachers during our three years at this school, and we were very happy when he was selected as principal of the building. As we leave, we wish him every success and happiness in his new position.

Mr. Bean's Message . . .

You are leaving school and going into life at a very critical period in our history. Of the kind of life that lies ahead we cannot be certain; but we do know that our country needs men and women who can think straight and act wisely, up-right individuals who are self-reliant, resourceful, and unafraid. It is for you to serve to the end that our democratic way of life may be sustained and go forward with the firm faith that good will endure.

Be loyal to God, your country, your family, and your friends. Then you may call life good and will have served life's purpose.

It is my sincere wish that each of you will be allowed to live your life to its fulfillment with many happy and prosperous days ahead.

SUCCESS

by

Katherine Constance Miggos

Give us light that we may not stumble
On the threshold of despair,
Give us strength to traverse pathways
Shirkers never try to dare.

Give us courage to press onward
Over mountains of defeat,
Give us friendly hands to guide us
'Til the victory we meet.

Give us hope that we may always
Live a life of helpfulness,
Striving ever for our best:
That will mean the true success.

Appreciation

A high school yearbook is one of the most treasured possessions of every individual fortunate enough to have one. We should be, indeed, remiss if we did not at this time give much consideration to those who have made ours possible.

Our grateful thanks are extended to the advisers, Miss Burke, Miss Lynch, and Miss Mawn, who have given untold hours of their time to this project. To the merchants and sponsors whose financial contributions made our book a reality, we extend our sincere appreciation.

As we "thumb through" our book in future years, we shall be ever mindful of your unselfish efforts in our behalf.
